

ASSEMBLY BILL

No. 2259

Introduced by Assembly Member Medina

February 18, 2016

An act to amend Section 52052.3 of the Education Code, relating to school accountability.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 2259, as introduced, Medina. School accountability: dropout recovery high schools.

Existing law requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction, with approval of the State Board of Education, to develop an Academic Performance Index (API), as part of the Public School Performance Accountability Program, to measure the performance of schools and school districts, especially the academic performance of pupils. The API consists of a variety of indicators including specified achievement test scores, attendance rates, and graduation rates. Existing law requires the Superintendent, with approval of the state board, to develop an alternative accountability system for specified types of schools, including, among others, community day schools and continuation schools. Existing law allows these schools to receive an API score, but prohibits them from being included in the API rankings of schools.

Existing law, until January 1, 2017, requires the Superintendent and the state board, as part of the alternative accountability system for schools, or any successor system, to allow no more than 10 dropout recovery high schools, as defined, to report the results of an individual pupil growth model that is proposed by the school and certified by the Superintendent pursuant to specified criteria instead of reporting other indicators.

This bill would extend the repeal date of that provision to January 1, 2020, and would update cross-references.

Vote: majority. Appropriation: no. Fiscal committee: yes.
State-mandated local program: no.
